

RUGBY BAPTIST CHURCH AWARDED “ECO CONGREGATION” STATUS

Supported by Rugby Friends of the Earth and others, Christians at Rugby Baptist Church have been working since last year to make a link between their faith and the environmental issues facing the world around us. Including “green” content in services and sermons, making alterations to the church heating system to save gas, exploring the links between the bible and environmental issues, going for walks together in the country, organising a 2010 church environment information day, recycling as much as possible, and many more activities... the list is still growing and there's lots more they hope to do in the future.

Environmental Family Service – On Sunday 23rd October there will be an environmental family service at 10:30am at the church (on Regent Place), to which all are invited. During the service, MP Mark Pawsey will be officially presenting the church with its first ever Eco Congregation award to recognise its achievements so far and spur them on to greater, greener things!
